Frequently Asked Questions

Who is eligible to use community service leave?

Community service leave is available to permanent, probationary or time-limited employees and requires preapproval from the employee’s supervisor.

My COVID-19 community service leave balance says I have 116 hours. Can I use this for either type of community service leave?

No, 80 hours of the leave is available to use for COVID-19-related volunteering at a nonprofit organization, and the other 36 hours are available to use for COVID-19-related tutoring/mentoring.

What does at risk mean?

The term at risk refers to “students who, by virtue of their circumstances, are more likely than others to fail academically,” according to the Office of State Human Resources.

How does COVID-19 community service leave affect the use of regular community service leave?

The use of COVID-19 community service leave for volunteering at a nonprofit organization or tutoring/mentoring will not affect your balance of regular community service leave hours. All requirements for use of regular community service leave hours still apply.

When would I use COVID-19 tutoring/mentoring community service leave instead of applying for leave under the Families First Coronavirus Response Act?

If you think you qualify for leave under FFCRA, submit an application, and it will be reviewed to determine your eligibility.

I am not sure which type of community service leave I should request. What should I do?

You should work with your supervisor, your HR department or University Human Resources to help determine which type of community service leave you should request. Please remember that all community service leave must be preapproved and can be denied based on business needs. Please see the community service leave scenarios below.

Are grandparents eligible to use community service to tutor or mentor their grandchildren?

According to information provided by the University of North Carolina System, employees who are grandparents can’t use COVID-19 community service leave to tutor or mentor their grandchildren. Parents can leverage community service leave to assist their children with their online work. An employee who happens to be a grandparent can volunteer to assist with the tutoring and mentoring of school-aged children through a school.

Can I use COVID-19 community service hours to work as a precinct official for the elections?

To support county boards of elections across North Carolina in their work to provide full access to all voters, the Office of State Human Resources authorized an exception to community service leave to allow up to three days (24 hours) of paid leave for state employees to become election workers. The 24 hours allowed is part of the up to 80 hours of COVID-19 community service leave that employees can use for volunteering. For more information, see the OSHR Election Worker FAQ.
